History of RiverCountry CO-OP

River Country Co-op's roots go back to 1948 when a group of farmers started what was then Chippewa Farmers Union Co-op. A person could become an original stockholder with a $100 investment. The original co-op started with a small bulk fuel truck and a service station doing automotive repair. Revenues were about $8,000 the first year.

In the next 40 years the Cooperative expanded into fertilizers, feed, propane and convenience stores. In 1988, the Co-op merged with the Boyd Farmers Union Co-op and officially became "River Country Co-op". In 1997 another expansion merger with Cornell Farmers Union Co-op took place. Revenues at this time were around 26 million dollars and employment was around 125 personnel. Along with the mergers, the growth of the Co-op expanded into more convenience stores, feed manufacturing, grain marketing, restaurants, trucks stops, travel centers and trucking.

In 1999, seeing that the DOT of Wisconsin was going to be constructing a bypass around the city of Chippewa on HWY 29, the board of directors approved a purchase of 10 acres of land at CTY T in the Wheaton Township. In 2005 construction started on what is now call the "Eau Claire Travel Center/ 29 Pines" and the doors opened for business on May 6, 2006. 29 Pines derives its name from the HWY 29 and the 29 pine trees planted around the pond adjacent to the building here.

In 2012, another merger with the Bloomer Farmers Union took place and a major grain plant expansion was built in Bloomer. In the next 6 years the Co-op grew through organic growth and acquisitions to revenues exceeding 90 million dollars and staffing grew to 300 employees.

In 2019, a merger by acquisition with Heartland Cooperative Services of central Wisconsin was approved by stockholders from both co-ops, making River Country Co-op what it is today.

We have 30+ locations from Prairie Farm to Antigo, WI. We are still a farm supply co-op governed by a farm board of directors. Employment has grown to over 600 employees and revenues to over 220 million dollars.

Our success is predicated on the good service and facilities we operate and customers that benefit from its use.
