Fish Camp News

NEWSLETTER VOLUME 1, NUMBER 1.

This is the very first issue of the Oak Hill Fish Camp Newsletter. A monthly Newsletter has been a goal for a long time and now it is here. Please keep sending in your pictures and comments. Make sure you give a little information about your pictures, (think the 5 W's,, who what when why how and where if you don't mind sharing your secret spot). This will help me make an interesting, informative and growing article that people will read.

AT THE FISH CAMP.

We are always trying to improve the fish camp. Please let us know if there is anything you can think of to help us make your stay here more enjoyable.

Aside from this Newsletter, we are also working on the website and constantly trying to improve it.

The new Charcoal Grills have been installed and work great. We are planning to add another dock slip and fix up the boat house. Another project that are on the agenda is painting the Flounder cabin. A new Kayak rack will help keep the kayaks organized.

Mike's Corner

Hi Friends, I hope this Newsletter is the first of many great new additions to Oak Hill Fish Camp. We have been growing steadily over the past years and hopefully our goal is to add another (the last) cabin next year.

And again if you have any suggestions for us to make your fishing vacation more enjoyable, please don't hesitate to let us know. ..Mike

And "hey".

What's Biting

Plenty of options for fishing in September. For Redfish and Trout try drifting the shallow (1ft.) water behind the clinker islands (TS-51 on the Top Spot Map). This is within easy kayak distance from the fish camp and extends all the way down to haulover canal (TS-44). Pigfish, cut mullet or Grandslam artificial baits.

Shotgun Flats (TS-55), on the back side of Shotgun channel (TS-56), there are a couple of places to get there from kayak, but from boat hit it from the open water and pole up. Try to find a place where the water is moving and fish the edge with some cut or live bait or fish some top-water artificial baits early in the morning for some spectacular strikes.

Hopefully next month we will have more customer pictures to post here and on our Facebook page. Thanks Liz for these pics! It looks like this trip is even better than your last one. Those are some very nice Redfish and Trout. You also finessed a pretty nice flounder out of the lagoon, nice touch! Between you and your hubby, I hope you left a few for the rest of us, haha.

There have been plenty of bait holding in both of the canals on either side of the fish camp. You can usually catch as much bait as you need for a great day of live bait fishing.

A great thing to bring for kids is a cast net. They can haul up some nice bait while having a blast finding all kinds of sea life. Every cast is like a box of chocolates, you never know what you are going to get.
